

Frequently Asked Questions - Training

Continuing Education (Training)

1. I need to get my license so when do you have a class I can take?

STOP THERE! If you DO NOT have your license yet you do not need you CE course. CE courses are for AFTER you get your license so that you can renew for the new year. Do not confuse getting Certified with Continuing Education Courses. Refer to the FAQ on Testing to get your license.

2. What CE course do I need?

If you have a CT or PP license you will need to take a 4-hour course each year to renew your license. This may be done in a classroom or online. If you have an IM license, in your first year you will need to take an 8-hour classroom course. This will be 4 hours of classroom and 4 hours hands-on. Once you have renewed your license for the first year, you are only required to take 4 hours either classroom or online each year thereafter to renew your license.

3. Once I finish the class when do I get my license?

You will NOT get your license just because you finished your course. You will still need to apply for your renewal with TDLR after you take the course.

4. When is your next class?

Classes are listed on our website at www.ttsa.org under Continuing Education or you can take the 4-hour online course under the Education tab.
